

Re: Possible low levels of egg protein in Single Lot of Amy's Golden Lentil Indian Dal (30-F1520)

Dear Valued Customer,

At Amy's Kitchen, the safety of our consumers is our highest priority. We are writing to inform you that we have been advised by the CFIA (Canadian Food Inspection Agency) that they tested our Golden Lentil Indian Dal soup and identified very low levels of egg protein (1.4 parts per million) in a single lot (30-F1520) of our Golden Lentil Indian Dal soup.

Because we do not use any egg or egg products in any of our products or facilities (and given the very low level detected), we immediately sent product out for testing to confirm the results CFIA received. We have proactively informed the Food and Drug Administration and are conducting a thorough investigation.

No other Amy's Kitchen products or lots are impacted. Please know that we have not had any complaints associated with this issue.

Our records show that you received 11,088 cases with this lot code between June 23 and August 11, 2020. All cases of Golden Lentil Indian Dal received before or after this time frame are not impacted.

The specific product can be identified by the package information as follows:

Brand name	Common name	Size	Lot code(s) on food	UPC
Amy's Kitchen, Inc.	Amy's	14.4oz	30-F1520	042272005932

Based on when you received this lot, we believe that the impacted lot has likely sold through already. However, out of an abundance of caution, we ask that you please discontinue the distribution, sale or use of this one lot of Golden Lentil Indian Dal soup should you still have any in stock and proceed with the destruction of any remaining inventory of the recalled lot in such a manner that they cannot be sold or used. Please contact us to confirm if you had any remaining inventory.

If you further distribute this lot of Golden Lentil Indian Dal soup, please immediately contact all your clients to whom you distributed this lot of Golden Lentil Indian Dal soup and inform them of this issue and actions they should take on the food.

We thank you for your continued support and will keep you informed as we continue to work with the FDA and further investigate this issue.

Sincerely,

Amy's Sales Team
